Women Taking Care of Business has awarded the third Moxy Woman Award to Temple Ann Hayes of St. Petersburg, FL. Ms. Hayes joins Chantelle Ashby and Carrie Newell as recipients of this award which is given to women that display courage and/ or bravery in the face of challenge to go for their dreams. The site continues to expand with articles and information on everything from money to music.

St. Petersburg, FL (PRWEB) December 6, 2007 -- WTCB announced today that the Moxy Woman Award for November has been awarded to Temple Ann Hayes of St. Petersburg, FL. Reverend Temple Hayes always dreamed of being a minister and her amazing story is available for viewing on the website.

This award marks the third Moxy Woman Award since the site went live on Sept. 21, 2007. The September Moxy Woman Award was given to Chantelle Ashby, an incredible singing talent at just 24 years of age. October's Moxy Woman Award was given to Carrie Newell, a Marine Biologist from Depoe Bay, Oregon.

According to President & CEO, Jean Harper, "We continue to get emails with nominations for the Moxy Woman Award as well as incredible stories of women around the country that show Moxy/ Moxie- courage and or bravery in the face of challenge to go for their dreams. I am deeply moved by the stories that keep coming forward. It is our mission to make these stories available to women everywhere; encouraging and empowering women to go for their dreams, whatever their dreams may be."

The website continues to expand with information and stories about everything from health, fitness, and beauty to music, astrology, art, managing your money and much, more. "The site is taking on a life of its own," Ms. Harper replied. Everyone is coming together to make this website fun as well as informative.

A series of events- Women Taking Care of... was launched two weeks ago starting with Women Taking Care of Pets- Christmas Pet Photo Contest. Next month the launch of Women Taking Care of Music- a Singing and Songwriting Contest will launch and promises to be a well planned and fun affair.

WTCB continues to search for sponsors that would like to show their support for women. "Together we can inspire, celebrate, support and empower women around the world," concluded Harper.

If you would like to show your support by advertising on this website please contact the company via phone or email.
